

Smoke Stark

Born in Vancouver, Smoke Stark has had a passion for the sports world since he was a child. From the moment he was born, doctors thought that he was not going to be able to talk due to complications with his throat at birth. Now, with the smoky that helps him rise above the rest, he hosts a university sports radio show, interviewing to some of the biggest names in sports and broadcasting.

Show Description

“Sports with Smoke” is a CFUR radio show hosted by Brady “Smoke” Stark. This is an action packed hour of banter and debate in which Smoke and his guests discuss all things sports, from local to international. The content ranges anywhere from talking about the games of the day, to the politics of the sports world and even extends to the business sector. This show dives into topics that many shows of this genre fail to address, and the high energy that Smoke and his guest of the week bring adds the extra element that brings this show full circle. Starting from humble beginnings, Smoke has interviewed Stanley Cup champions and broadcasting legends all while attracting new fans with segments such as Canucks Corner, Cougar Talk, and the ever-popular “seven different kinds of smoke”. The originality and creative views has made Sports with Smoke one of the premiere up and coming sports shows on radio today.