

Producer Bio: Liz McArthur is the news director at CFUV. “My favourite part of my job is interviewing interesting people.”

Show note:

Beyond the Jargon began in the fall of 2012 when Colleen Clement, a graduate student saw a need to bring research work at the university to the larger public in an accessible way.

Since then, Colleen, Mario Baldassari and Liz McArthur have interviewed dozens of grad students from UVic about research topics ranging from improving cancer treatments, the spread of misinformation by governments, a fridge that tweets when you are out of milk, the process of writing powerful poetry and a computer system that generates patterns for lace that have never been seen before.

The Grad Student Society continues to support the show and it is widely shared through CFUV’s podcast platform on Soundcloud.
